Consequently their being numbered by the numerical signals of Marryatt's code, adds as much to one stock of knowledge as the exhibition of the bunting a few minutes prior to the steamer's arrival at the wharf. Even with this key of the Customs' telegraph before us, the signalising on Saturday last for the upwardbound steamers, created a considerable countersurmises as to the meaning of the numerical signals 2 and 5, or in other words No. 25, since the Customs' diagram did not exhibit anything beyond No. 12, which is the Sunrise. DR. NORMAN MACLEOD ON BRITIS! RULE IN INDIA. This eminent divine was entertained at banquet during his stay in Calcutta. His Excellency the Viceroy was present. the course of his reply to the toast of his

Dr MacLeod said he could not find word express his thanks—to be sufficiently grateful for the warm-hearted reception which he and his beloved friend Dr Watson. had met with? He hoped, however, that he had too much sense to suppose that such a meeting as the present was merely to do nonor to them as individuals or as representatives of the Church of Scotland. was glad rather to believe that having been sent forth with no sectarian or political object, but cordially backed up by men of all parties at home in order to gather facts and to do what good they could for India in being so cordially recognised. He hoped that they would be considered on the com- with Snyder breech-loaders, and am not altheir duty. His mind had already received the grandeur of the British rule in India. It was difficult to realise that this vas continent was governed by a small knot English gentlemen, whose palace was tent-whose sceptre was a riding whipand whose crown was a sola topee. It was him as if a few men had apportioned the government of Europe between them-one saying "I'll take England and Scotland"and another. " As it is of such little trouble I have no objection to manage Ireland "-s third undertaking Spain and Portugaland so on. This to him was marvellous. He had travelled much in other lands supposed to be far more civilised and had found one companion generally necessary by one's side—a pistol. This was the case in India. From Calcutta to the Khyber men were living in peace under the protection of just and righteous rule, and this was another impression that forced itself so strongly upon him that this order and tranquillity was owing to British rule without which it could not have been obtained, and without which it could not for a moment be kept. Holding this impression it did appear strange to him that india held such little influence in the minds of men at home. This could no but be acutely felt by Indian statesmen re turning to England. A man who has had the welfare of thousands depending upon his sense of truth and integrity goes home after years of hard and anxious labor to find in England that his name even in his own county is less known than that of some town councillor or orator on water rates. Till times change such a man must be content with the simple but proud consciousness of having served his country, and must look only to his God and his own heart, for confirmation that he did his duty. present position of the Englishman in India is one of the most remarkable facts in the history of nations. Its like has never been witnessed in any of the governments of the world. It made him justly proud of his countrymen-proud, too, of the Missionaries in Iudia. He was very sceptical about what were called facts, and therefore when he really caught a fact he clung to it-and one thing he felt certain was a fact—that

Missionaries had done much good to India. It was true that there was still a great gulf between European and Natives. India might be compared to a great ship in which the Natives were the crew and the Europeans the passengers who, hurrying to and fro, have little time to care about the former But Christianity was the key to unlock the door of separation.

This was a summons on behalf of a gentleman named Ross, for the purpose obtaining payment of the balance of his salary, as manager of the branch bank of the company at Yokohama. MR. TRAIN-AGAIN. (Morning Herald.) It will be remembered that this irrepressible man was arrested at Cork, on his arrival from America, on suspicion of Fenianism, and afterwards released. He is brimful of anecdotes of his experiences in the gaol, and gives, amongst other things, capital and most amusing bits of mimicry of some well-known gaol officials. He wrote some letters in gaol to be forwarded to private friends in America, but these were stopped by the governor. They were returned to Mr Train, however, on leaving. The following is a specimen of them :-

Regarding Mr. Train's future proceed ings, the same journal says, on the authority of the interview that I have just referred

"Mr. Train is determined to lose no time in claiming popular attention here, so suddenly aroused in his regard by his arrest. With that view he is about to 'stump' the country, delivering a series of lectures on his travels and such subjects. He purposes, of course, strictly avoiding political subjects or any reference to Fenianism, as the terms of his release laid down; but is confident he can command attention on other topics. Mr. Train says:- 'This is the programme. I go in to make money of these lectures to make this country pay me largely, why? Do I want the money-a man who owns four-fifths of the city of Omaha-a man whom 14 mass meetings in Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, Missouri, and the rest nominated for the Presidency? Lwill make the British pay me. You know what Charles Dickens did to the Yanks in his "American Notes" and "Martin Chuzzlewit" when he came back from our country? And now when he goes back there, what does he meet? They go down and kiss his feet; they give him dollars no end; they beslaver him. George Francis Train may have said hard things of the British in his own country, but when he comes here what do they do. Clap him in a murderer's cell.' He says 'The British have played the Dickens with my financial arrangements; I will play the Dickens with

A REPORT from Calcutta regarding the influence of Ritualism in the army, in a rather different sense from that which High Churchmen would like, will probably have more weight with the higher powers at home than all the reasoning in the world A young chaplain at Fort William Church with a leaning to Paseyism, gave so very advanced a character to the service as to make it almost the same as the Romish This was too much for the Protestantism of the 60th Rifles, who have naturally a strong dislike to so near an approximation to s church which bestows upon murderers the honours of martyrdom. What the soldiers thought of the matter might not have been of much consequence, had they merely grumbled; but they were not content with that kind of social enjoyment. As a practical protest against the Angle-Romisb service, 100 of them went straightway to their commanding officer and requested that their names should be set down as Presbyterians, in order that they may be marched to that place of worship in future. Soldiers are not very nice casuists, but they oun much more easily perceive the difference between Presbyterians and Popery, than between the latter and Anglo-Romanism of the Newmanite School.

LONDON; N. TRUBNER & Co. Price, $5, leather half bound, Opinions of the Press

(Singapore Free Press, May 9.) We referred briefly, several days ago, new work published by Messrs, A. . hortrede & Co., of Hongkong, entitled "The Treaty Ports of China and Jupan." But it would be utterly impossible, in a condensed notice of such a work, to give an adequate idea of its contents. The historical the settlement of Hougkong, are perhaps information, but many useful binds. too much condensed into a general sommabut the most important feature in the composition of the society of the present colony, is detailed at greater length. When we come to consider that the book before us makes no pretensions to be a history, but merely a guide book, we cannot hesitate to pronounce it at once the most complete work of its kind ever issued. The Appendix may be termed the China Bradshaw, and the text teems with inceresting papers,-historical, botanical, and descriptive. The maps and plans are useful illustrations of the geographical position of the treaty ports, and a valuable assistance both to travellers and residents.

Shadahar Lecorder May 7, and Supreme Court and Consular Gazette, May 11, 1867. A very useful book has just been issued from the Press in Hongkong under the title of the " Guide Book and Vade-mecum to the Treaty Ports of China and Japan, compiled and edited by Mr N. B. Dennys. The Book is very conveniently got up; intersporsed with maps of the various treaty ports, and contains, besides much useful local information, historical sketches of much interest. Our readers will feel naturally interested in what is said concerning Shanghai; and a good idea of the history of this place is conveyed in Mi Dennys' work. * * The other ports in China and also those in Japan are carefully described, and almost all ticulars which can be required by the traveller or resident are to be found in this work, which may be justly regarded as the "Murray" for China.

From his "Notes on Formosa" are derived many of the particulars given in the work under review. * * Interesting descriptions of the fauna and flora of the island are given, for details of which we refer our readers to the book itself.' We have, we helieve, said enough to show the scope and character of the work; and must take leave of it for the present, though with the intention of completing our sketch of the information it gives regarding the various treaty ports, on a future occasion. Miscellaneous.

We hope to see this omission repaired in the next edition. With the exception of the comparative thinness of the paper, the getting-up of the work is very creditable to all concerned; and we have sincere pleasure in congratulating the authors and publishers on the considerable merit of their admirable enterprise and performance.

From the Englishman (Culcutta) of June 8:-"The celebrated volumes of the French Abbé Hue on China, and Sir Rutherlord Alcock's account of Japan are, no doubt, works of a far higher class and more extensive scope than the one now before us; but for practical utility for all purposes of locomotion, trading and I residence in any of the places coming with in its compass, The Trenty Ports of China and Japan, by Messrs Mayers, Dennys and King, inr surpasses them. It is difficult to know under what class or books to place it, for it contains a mixture of history, topography, hygiene, Murray's Hand-book and Bradshaw's Unide, all as complete and excellent in their own line as could be expected; and though, perhaps, the book will not prove attractive to students, it is calculated to give a more intimate knowledge of the towns it describes, aided by the excellent maps which accompany it-the work entirely of Chinese-than any of the more claborated works that have preceded * * * We trust we have said enough a show that for any one about to visit, or reside in either of the countries described. events of interest since the foundation of this work contains not only most valuable Opinions of the Fress. . (Hankow Times, Mar. 1807.) We insert this week, apropos of some piment correspondence which has appeared f the late in our columns, an extract from the new publication, "Notes and Queries on China and Japan," on the subject of infanticide, which we particularly recommend to the notice of our contributors as containing some reliable facts in conncotion with the vexed question. Such a work as the "Notes" is peculiarly adapted for bringing to light valuable information in respect to this country, and its people, language, and institutions; and we trust it will be as warmly supported as it deserves by the numerous rising and energetic men, who are now, thanks principally to the philological labours of Mr Secretary Wade, making rapid advance in the acquirement of the languages to say nothing of the devoted missionariespublished, entitled "The Treaty Ports of who have already grown grey in their ser-

(Shanghai Recorder, May 17, 1867.) We are put in possession of the fourth number of " Notes and Queries on China and Japan." In saying that the present number equals in interest and importance its predecessors, we have already said a great deal in its favour. Our knowledge of these countries has hitherto been so scattered, so ill-arranged, entombed as it were, in a series of works, in different languages, and spreading in point of time, over the last two centuries, that some means of separating what is really new, from what has possibly been over and over again deseribed is much to be desired * * * As a modium of intercommunication on these and many other subjects of interest to those connected with the far East, we must hail the appearance of "Notes and Queries." * * We need only add that the periodical is of convenient size, is carefully edited by Mr N. B. Dennys, and is published at the low price of $4 per annum; and having said this, we trust that '- Notes and Queries on China and Japan? will neet with that success which so creditable a production deserves at the hands of those interested in Asiatio researches.

(Fouchow Advertiser, May 4, 1867.) We have received a copy of 'Notes and Queries:" this publication will be really useful, it contains much matter relating to China which otherwise would be lost, and we wish it every success. Finologues, Chinese antiquaries and scientific men ought. especially to congratulate themselves in the appearance of " Notes and Queries," as it will form their medium of communication and bring into notice what otherwise mighthavelain unknown and buried in themselves. Now that Law and Officialism have got their Gazette, Science and Philology their Notes and Queries, and Missionaries their Recorder, the various divisions of mental thought and work in this land ought to be well taken care of; for our part we are glad to see these several issues, both on account of the information and instruction they afford, and the index they supply to the mental vigour of the foreign community in this land. (Singapore Free Press, Mar. 2, 1867.) We have received the first number of a neat little pampildet of eight pages outitled Macao are wisely included in the general containing some able and interesting hissurvey. * * * The value of the book is torical papers on China, together with greatly increased by a most copious index, notes and numerous queries for inture con-N.
